

The Great Coxwell Parish Council (the 'Council' or 'GCPC') holds assets, provides facilities, organizes activities, incurs responsibilities and enters into contracts benefitting the parish, as well as dealing with issues brought up by parishioners or which arise at its meetings.

The Council undertakes to respond to parishioners' concerns at its regular council meetings, and to review and discuss issues with parishioners at the Annual Parish Meeting. All regular Council meetings and the APM are open to the public.

The GCPC is a small council and depends upon the encouragement and active involvement of parishioners to maintain the environment, heritage and social life of the village. The Precept received from Oxfordshire County Council only covers regular maintenance costs and GCPC relies on volunteer fundraising for all other sources of funds. This is particularly important for meeting unexpected other expenses, especially for the Park and Reading Room and for new capital items.

The Council posts announcements of upcoming meetings, minutes of meetings held and summaries of the Council's work on the village website (<https://www.greatcoxwell.com/home.html>) and on noticeboards outside of the Great Coxwell Reading Room. The village website is run by parishioners of Great Coxwell for the benefit of the village. Information about the Council's activities is also posted in the Village Newsletter which goes out regularly by email with news of interest to the village (web@greatcoxwell.com).

7. Footpaths around and into the village

A Footpath Warden regularly reviews the footpaths in and around the village including stiles and fencing; the Warden's observations are reported to the Council at its regular meetings or by email if there are urgent issues.

The Council undertook an upgrade to footpath FP231/10 to improve the only safe pedestrian access to the roundabout bus stops and to Faringdon. The path is now paved and wide enough for disability vehicles. It is used extensively by residents from the new estates to walk to the village to exercise pets and to visit the Park and Barn. The work was largely funded by Section 106 funds, the cooperation of the landowner is gratefully acknowledged.

8. Village Pump and cobbled path

The pump is close to a well which served the lower part of the village. The path from the pump leading uphill to the church and vicarage and downhill to the cottages below was cobbled in probably the 18th century.

Parish landowners and local organisations

• The National Trust

The National Trust owns the Great Barn, Courthouse, much of the western half of the parish including Badbury Hill and Wood and several rented and leased houses in the village. The Council is in regular contact with the Trust to ensure collaboration on areas of mutual importance such as supporting environmental conservation, preserving heritage sites and areas and countryside education in the parish.

• Local farmers and landowners

Local agricultural landowners and tenants maintain verges and hedges throughout the parish. Contact with them is maintained by the Council regarding matters such as hedgecutting etc.

- St Giles church

The church building and churchyard are integral parts of the village and provide important functions such as weddings, funerals and christenings as well as regular church services which are open to all.
